

Premier Aberhart Will Read Address to King George

Alberta's official address of welcome to the King is a beautiful affair, and congratulations are being tendered to those responsible for its creation.

Handsomely illuminated on vellum, the pictorial representations are all of Alberta content—will game, game, scenery and so forth. The vellum is stitched to a large sheet of birch bark—another Alberta product—and it will be rolled for keeping among the King's treasures of his visit to Canada.

Premier Aberhart will read the address from the steps of the legislative building.

Premier Aberhart's first airplane flight took place this week. Taking off from Edmonton airport for the north country, the premier did not arrive at his destination owing to bad weather, which forced the machine back.

Many Went to Calgary For Royal Visit

The special train from Crow's Nest last Friday leaving at 5.30 had very few passengers from there, and at Coleman 38 purchased tickets. On reaching Marled, it is reported over 500 passengers were aboard from the Pass towns and intermediate points. A large number from Coleman journeyed by auto. The town was comparatively quiet throughout the day. The splendid coverage of the arrival and the drive around the City of Calgary by the three royal figures of Calgary was highly appreciated by those who were unable to go to the city. The word picture of the entire proceedings, from the sound of the locomotive hauling the royal train, the visit to the Indian village and the train's departure, was heard very clearly while the comment by radio announcers from points of vantage on the route was maintained for the entire two hours of the visit of the King and Queen.

The chiefs from the various Indian reserves of Southern Alberta were given an opportunity to speak over the radio, and in almost far-flung English they related their personal experiences of the thrill the royal visit gave them.

Special reference was made by them to the late Queen Victoria, affectionately termed the "Great White Mother," great-grandmother of the present King.

ENJOYING THE FAIR

"The Frisco Golden Gate Fair is certainly worth seeing. Having a grand time." So write Gwen and Roach Cousins on the back of a post card containing a beautiful view of the Hall of the Western States at the Exposition. In the central court a gigantic relief map is displayed depicting the wonders and vacation lands of Western America and Canada.

FINE PHOTOGRAPHIC SERVICE

Some of the most vivid photographs of the Royal visit to Calgary were secured by Dick Matthews, staff photographer for the Lethbridge Herald. Good work!

Fernie Footballers Defeated Coleman 5-3

Blairmore Cancels First League Game; League Meeting at Coleman June 10.

Fernie footballers gained a 5-3 decision over Coleman at Fernie last Saturday afternoon in the first game of the year. The game had been originally scheduled as a league fixture, but upon receipt of a wire from Blairmore cancelling their game scheduled against Fernie at Blairmore the following day (Sunday) it was decided that the Coleman-Fernie game be considered a friendly encounter.

Coleman's line-up has a liberal sprinkling of youngsters who showed up well against Fernie, a number of them playing their first game in senior company.

Coleman trailed 3-0 at half time, but tied it up soon after the second half started on goals by Walker, L. Moore and J. Moore. The latter player was playing his first senior game. Fernie drew away again when they shot another two goals past young Zetula, who also was experiencing his first senior game.

Following the game it was decided by league officials to call a meeting at Coleman on June 10, when delegates from Hillcrest, Blairmore, Coleman, Michel, Fernie and Coal Creek will be present. It is hoped at this meeting to come to a definite understanding on how many teams will operate this year.

ROBBERS AT IT AGAIN

Arriving at his store on Saturday morning, Joe Spieglak found the front door broken and tobacco and groceries missing. The padlock of a very strong lock had apparently been sawn off. Shortly after 8 a.m. Tom Clarke, employed at the International Coal Co. coke ovens, discovered a quantity of tobacco near the railroad tracks, but no clue was obtained as to the identity of the burglars.

Andrew Zur Again Wins Yearlings' Championship and Deliveries Cup. The fourth race was flown from Lac la Biche, 372 miles, 141 yards, on Sat. May 27.

The birds were held until 7.50 a.m. on account of fog, and were then liberated with a weather report of clear and calm.

This race was a combined race for yearlings and older birds. The yearlings competed for the yearlings' championship and the Deliveries Ltd. cup, and all birds for the open prizes and pools.

The velocities of this race will be used with the velocities of the Waterways' race next week, the best average velocity of the two races to decide the winner of the Bell Memorial cup, being competed for this year for the first time.

The older birds showed their superiority over the yearlings at this distance, all the open prizes going to older birds.

Andrew Zur clocked in the first yearling, winning the yearlings' championship cup for the second year in succession.

Lethbridge Miners Defeated Hillcrest 2-1

Hillcrest football eleven met defeat in their first game of the season when Lethbridge Miners eked out a 2-1 win at Hillcrest on Saturday evening. A poor crowd witnessed the game, Lethbridge led 2-0 until ten minutes from the final whistle, when Hillcrest scored their lone tally.

A number of old veterans were seen in Hillcrest uniform and it is hoped they will keep the game alive in that town by entering the Crows' Nest Pass football league, which at the present time comprises only Fernie and Coleman.

ATTENTION

is directed to the hockey club's financial statement on page 5, which will prove interesting.

Just what the hockey setup next year will be, in both Alberta and B.C., remains to be seen, but all the clubs are using the off season to improve their teams for next season. We hear that the Duke of Keats, former Pro star, will be in Coleman next winter as coach which would give the Canadians one of the smartest men on ice—Kimberley Courier.

Lloyd Sanderson came back from his home in Saskatchewan last week and immediately signed up with Canadians to put at rest reports that he might sign with Turner Valley Oilers for next winter's hockey season.

Accompanying Sanderson to Coleman was Johnny Chad, last year's star right-winger for Edmonton Athletic Club who reached the finals of the Dominion junior championship. He is reported to be interested in offers made by Turner Valley.

The executive intend to sign on many of last season's players during this week. Numerous applications for berths on the team have been received from outside points, several good goalies being heard from.

Redsky, Sprout, Vickery and Coach Kryschuk left for their homes in Saskatchewan and Manitoba during the past few weeks, but it is expected some of them will return and don Canadians' uniform next season.

Colorful Pageant at West Coleman School Grounds

Cameron school was the scene of a colorful pageant on Wednesday afternoon when approximately 130 children from grades one to six took part in the crowning of the May Queen and the dance of the Maypole. This has become an annual event at Cameron school and was witnessed by over 100 adults who applauded the various entertainers.

Miss Helen Guimond, beautifully costumed in white, was crowned queen of the May, and with fitting ceremony was presented by Mrs. George Pattinson with a beautiful bouquet of flowers. Queen Helen then viewed the brilliant dances from her ribbon-draped throne.

Nine dances and acts were performed by the children who were attired in appropriate costumes. Miss Yuill, principal, and Miss Johnson supplied the music. The pupils, by their fine performances, were a credit to their teachers who must have spent many hours drilling them in the intricate steps of the dances, and the addresses made by a number of pupils. The Misses Yuill, Ethel and Margaret Dunlop, and Laura Johnson are the teachers of Cameron school.

Hillcrest Trim Pucksters 8-4

The first home game of the season before an exceptionally large and admiring crowd of enthusiastic fans proved disastrous to Angelo's Pucksters on Wednesday evening when they absorbed an 8-4 trimming from Hillcrest. It was Hillcrest's second win in the C.N.P. Baseball league.

Paul Yagos was batted from the mound in the third inning for the locals when three runs crossed the plate. Billy Fields was sent in but lasted only a short time when the local's ace hurler, Marconi, was called on. He went the remainder of the route.

Coleman never threatened after the third inning, Draper and Seaman sharing the mound duty for Hillcrest to the satisfaction of their team mates.

So determined were three young ladies of Coleman to see the King and Queen last Friday at Calgary that they started out to walk. Kindly motorists were so impressed with their loyalty and eagerness to see the royal couple that they were enabled to reach the city with only having walked five miles of the distance. Not desiring publicity they asked that their names be not published, yet it is gratifying to know that their ambition was fully rewarded.

Colonization Plans

A perusal of a report recently received from Great Britain leaves one with the impression that drought-ridden prairie farmers who have been seeking a safe anchorage elsewhere have been overlooking a good bet when they passed up Central British Columbia, for we learn from this document that "Our personal impression was that there was no reason why any small farmer on suitable soil and with the will to work should not save anything from $500 to $2,500 a year after feeding his family and buying such household necessities as he cannot produce."

The report is not talking about the happy condition of Central British Columbia farmers in the halcyon days of yore, but makes it clear that reference is made to possibilities under present day conditions for it adds: "They were all mixed farmers and we were further impressed with the fact that in general they were not dependent on the depression to anything like the extent of other farmers, such as the wheat producers of the west."

The report is that of the British Mission of Brigadier General Sir Henry Page Croft and R. S. Dalgleish to Western Canada last summer to investigate the possibilities of community settlement for British immigrants in British Columbia which was presented to the Prime Minister and the cabinet of Great Britain in the fall.

Apart from the fact that the Mission appears to have unearthed a section of Western Canada where it is apparently still possible to farm on small scale at a profit under present conditions, the report is of considerable interest in the prairie provinces, since it was originally the intention to establish colonies of British settlers, under an identical British state-aided scheme, in the wheat growing provinces under what was known as the General Horby plan, to which considerable publicity was given last year.

The report leaves the impression that whatever plans may have been formulated for British settlement on colonization basis in the prairie provinces have been abandoned for the time being and attention is being concentrated on colonization in British Columbia where to some extent at least, conditions are dissimilar, and where the government has promised to make a grant of free land for the use of the prospective colony. Probably the clue to the abandonment of an immediate colonization project in the prairie provinces may be found in the reference already quoted, to the hardships experienced by what grows on the prairies in recent years.

Population Needed

Whether the proposals to settle British colonies on community basis in the prairie provinces will be revived once the machinery has been set in motion to transfer colonies to Central British Columbia is apparently not known here at the moment, but it is quite probable that something more will be heard of it in the near future.

There can be no quarrel with the general statement in the report that Western Canada needs greater population to help carry the burden of the overhead which has been created in providing such a large territory with facilities; nor with the statement that every settler on the land provides a means of livelihood for at least one other in the cities, towns and villages, but conditions must be such that the settler on the land is able to operate at a margin of profit.

This condition cannot be said to have been achieved as long as the staple product on the prairies has to be subsidized or a large number of the producers assisted via the direct relief route, and more particularly is this the case if the subsidy is not sufficient to ensure a margin of profit. Until this situation is cleared up Western farmers as a body are undoubtedly opposed to immigration on colonization scale, even under a two-year guarantee and it is quite conceivable that the east would have some objections to offer.

British Stock Needed

Nor can there be any quarrel with the oft-heard statement that whatever immigration to this country is permitted, whether on colonization scale or otherwise, it is highly desirable that a substantial percentage of the newcomers be of British stock.

And this can be said without impugning the loyalty of other nationals who have sought and been welcomed to the hospitality of this country and the liberty and security it affords, and their offspring. It is, however, essential that there be a strong foundation stock of those who are steeped in the traditions on which freedom and liberty are based to exert a leavening influence on those who have not been so fortunate in the circumstances surrounding their origin.

Certainly this objective should not be lost sight of and should receive every encouragement when conditions permit and opportunities afford.

In the meantime the question of Central British Columbia, if it is brought to fruition, and it looks like going ahead, will be watched with considerable interest in the prairie provinces and doubtless some valuable lessons will be learned from it. Let us hope it will be as great a success as its promoters anticipate.

Must Be Widely Read

Moscow: Paper Claims Copies Of Stalin's Books Run Into Millions. The Detroit Free Press says if you are trying to decide who is the most widely read current author, it is evident will be dangerous to leave Joseph Stalin off the list of candidates.

For a Moscow newspaper makes some astonishing claims in his behalf. It asserts that 157,000,000 copies of his books were printed in the period 1933-38 (compared to 48,755,000 volumes of the works of Lenin).

The publication says, too, that in addition, 13,755,000 copies of Stalin's brief history of the Communist party have been printed in ten languages and that shortly 20,000,000 of his speech of last March before the Communist party will come off the press. A record like that is enough to make Adolf Hitler turn green, and several other colors, with envy.

New Use For Honey

Found Effective For Stimulating Roots Of Cuttings. Ordinary honey may be used with good effect in floriculture in the stimulation of roots of cuttings. Preliminary experiments by the Division of Horticulture, Dominion Experimental Farms, proved the utility of honey in this respect, and a thorough test which was concluded in March established the fact that a 25 per cent. solution of honey had a definitely stimulating effect on roots of both cedar and chrysanthemum cuttings and compared very favourably with any of the hormone chemicals used for that purpose.

The Queen Remembered

Talks To Drummer Boy Her Majesty Saw In India 13 Years Ago

The Queen recognized a war veteran she had last seen in hospital at Delhi, India, 13 years ago, a prodigious feat of memory.

Leslie Holden, once a drummer in the Black Watch and now a farm hand at Kempsville, Ont., rode 40 miles on his bicycle to take his place among veterans at the unveiling of the National War memorial at Ottawa.

As their Majesties passed the Queen stopped in front of him and treated him to her dazzling smile. "Were you not in India?" inquired the Queen.

Drummer Holden said he was too dumfounded for a moment to speak. "Yes, ma'am," he finally gulped. "I was in the Second Battalion, Black Watch, and you shook hands with me 13 years ago in Delhi as I lay in bed in hospital."

"I remember," nodded the Queen. "Did you get over your operation?"

"Yes, ma'am," said the veteran. "Do you recognize this?" said Her Majesty, drawing his attention to a brooch on the left shoulder of her white coat. It was a replica of a Black Watch badge, set in diamonds and emeralds.

"Yes, I recognized it right away," said Holden. "It's the brooch the Second Battalion gave you when you visited Delhi."

Machine Works Accurately

Operating Like Electric Razor It Removes Skin For Grafting

A new machine for skinning human beings to make skin grafting more certain and safe and thus save lives was demonstrated at St. Louis, Mo.

A Kansas City surgeon, Dr. Earl C. Padgett, showed with a paint pot of rubber cement, a curved piece of sheet metal and a vibrating knife, how he could, if necessary, whack all the skin off a person who had recently been killed and transfer it to save the life of another facing death from a severe burn or injury.

In principle the machine is an electric razor which can cut any area of the skin to any desired depth accurately and quickly. If an area to which skin is to be grafted required it, the instrument could provide a patch with scalloped edges.

Heretofore skin grafting required that the surgeon have a flat surface of the body to work on when he removed a piece of skin with the ordinary surgical knife, Dr. Padgett said.

With the mechanical skinner, patches six inches long and four inches wide can be taken off in a few minutes and applied immediately after being burned or otherwise damaged areas.

In use the rubber cement is painted on the curved metal drum and also on the area of the skin to be detached. When it dries, one edge of the drum is placed on the skin and it adheres tightly to the area. The drum is then rotated and a knife driven back and forth by an electric motor follows it to separate the skin from the body. The skin is then stripped off the drum and placed on the area where it is needed. The rubber cement can be rubbed off later after the graft has begun.

Should Think Sooner

Some People Have Ready Excuse After Getting Into Trouble

A man convicted at London, Ont., of drunken driving told the magistrate that he might lose his job. He was, nevertheless, sentenced to two weeks in jail and told that the magistrate was more concerned about people in the street whom he might kill or injure than over the possible loss of his position. That is the correct attitude to take. Men who plead for their wives, their families or their jobs after they have got themselves into trouble never think of them beforehand.

Safer Motoring

Checking Motorists Who Do Not Keep Cars In Safe Mechanical Condition

All over Canada this month, highway constables and city police officers are waging war against motorists who do not keep their cars in safe, mechanical condition. The most common carelessness displayed by motorists is with regard to their headlights and tail lights. The driver who travels on highways with one headlight out is considered one of the greatest menaces in motoring. Police everywhere are issuing reports that such carelessness must be stopped—in the interests of greater safety.

Don't be a one-eyed driver. Wives motorists who wish to avoid fines should have their brakes tested and headlights checked to-day.

Russian Agreement Final Step Needed To Ensure Success

London. Neville Chamberlain started his third year as prime minister with confidence that by the end of the week he will have lined up Soviet Russia with her vast resources with the Anglo-French anti-aggression front.

The prime minister was reported as already looking beyond completion of what he terms a "peace front" against aggression, to a possible world conference in a further attempt to reach a settlement of European problems without war.

Weekend newspapers commented on the projected agreement with Russia as though it was an accomplished fact, asserting it was the final step needed to ensure success of Mr. Chamberlain's policy of standing up to the axis powers.

Newspapers which a few months ago were assailing him for his "appeasement" efforts now voiced general approval of his new policy.

The Sunday Pictorial (Independent) said: "A year ago the Sunday Pictorial published its article 'The World is Saying We are Yellow.' Who need publish such an article to-day? The lion has turned."

The Sunday Dispatch (Independent) observed: "Our diplomacy scores again. First Turkey, now Russia. Twice Hitler has failed to gum up our play."

Some observers believe Mr. Chamberlain is leaning toward the idea of summoning a conference of the nations of the world where each would be invited to submit any grievances for discussion.

Advocates of such a plan argue refusal by Hitler and Mussolini to be represented or to define their demands for "living space" would weaken the belief of their own people in the charges of "encirclement" against the Anglo-French front, and therefore, might bring their participation.

Berlin. Nazi Germany has embarked on a policy of wooing old and new friends while the issue with Poland over the free city of Danzig remains on the edge of the shelf.

Royal Air Force Crash

Canadian Pilot And Four Others Are Killed In England

Newark, Eng. Flying Officer Jack George McGrail, a Canadian, and four other Royal Air Force men were killed when a bomber crashed and burst into flames near here.

McGrail's address was announced merely as "Ontario, Canada." The other victims were Pilot Officer Geoffrey Lloyd, Sergeant Howard Trencham, Aircraftsman Raymond Lumley and Aircraftsman Edward Brentnall.

Czecho-Slovak Debts

Says Germany Does Not Intend To Repudiate Obligation

London.—Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, told the House of Commons that from conversations between British and Germans "it does not appear there is any intention to repudiate Czecho-Slovak government debts."

Conversations on the release of Czech assets held in London are proceeding between the treasury and German representatives, the financial secretary to the treasury, Captain Harry Crookshank told the house, to see if a "basis exists for more formal discussions."

Sir John said the British treasury had heard indirectly Germany is seeking to obtain an undisclosed sum of Czech gold which was being held by the Bank of England as agent for the Bank of International Settlements at Basle.

He said the government had decided there was nothing it could do to prevent Germany from obtaining the gold entrusted to the B.I.S. by the Czech National bank, while Czecho-Slovakia still was an independent state.

Dr. Charles Mayo Dead

Famous Surgeon Of Rochester Was Internationally Known

Chicago.—Dr. Charles H. Mayo, famous surgeon who teamed with his brother in developing the internationally known medical clinic in Rochester, Minn., died of pneumonia at Mercy hospital.

The 73-year-old doctor saved the lives of patients from all sections of North America. At the bedside when death came was his wife; his son, Dr. Charles W. Mayo, and three daughters.

Dr. William J. Mayo, 77, who worked with Dr. Charles in building the renowned "Mayo Brothers" institution, was at his home in Rochester, recovering from a recent operation.

Dr. Charles W. Mayo announced his father's death was caused by "lobar pneumonia, type No. 3, a rare type nearly always fatal."

Many Travel By Air

First Month's Business On Trans-Canada Lines Encouraging

Montreal.—Passengers on Trans-Canada Airlines made 1,416 trips in April, first month of official passenger service. It was announced here by George Wakeman, general traffic manager. Most of the tickets were sold in Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton and Winnipeg. Out of Vancouver, 339 trips were made, 123 were made out of Winnipeg and 200 out of Calgary. First month's passenger business was "most encouraging," Mr. Wakeman said.

OTTAWA BECOMES "HEART OF EMPIRE" WITH VISIT OF KING AND QUEEN

CANADIAN VETERAN

Captain W. P. Grant, 78 years of age, is perhaps the oldest veteran of the Great War to participate in the Royal Visit to the Canadian Capital. Captain Grant is seen above in the special beret he wore during the visit. He enlisted at Halifax with the 237th Battalion when he was 54 years of age, and was quartermaster of the regiment.

Garden Party Protests

Lady Lindsay Has Difficulty In Preparing List At Washington

Washington.—Disappointment among those who failed to get invitations to a garden party for King George and Queen Elizabeth here June 8 reached such a pitch that Lady Lindsay, the hostess, told women reporters with a smile: "Ladies, my head is bloody but unboiled."

While protests were heard from among the congressional wives and others left off the list of the 1,350 invited, Lady Lindsay, wife of the British ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, explained that she tried to put representative Americans from various fields of activity on her list, which had to be limited.

John L. Lewis, Congress of Industrial Organizations leader, was invited. She disclosed, along with President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, and Henry Ford. Among the others were Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., General Pershing, Norman Davis, George Wakeman, general traffic manager. Most of the tickets were sold in Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton and Winnipeg. Out of Vancouver, 339 trips were made, 123 were made out of Winnipeg and 200 out of Calgary. First month's passenger business was "most encouraging," Mr. Wakeman said.

With another smile, Lady Lindsay said that on the whole, the air over invitations was very heart-warming to Anglo-American relations.

Railway Unification Is Impossible Says Leader R. J. Manion

Ottawa. Unification of Canada's two railway systems is impossible because of "muddled thinking" by a Montreal financial paper, but the muddled thinking was on the part of those who claimed unification would solve the railway problem.

"I see," he said, "that even the gentleman who in another place supports unification as strongly (Senator Meighen) admits in his speech that it will not wipe out the deficit of the Canadian National Railways. I hope the financial paper that was kind enough to talk of 'muddled thinking' will take a lesson or two from him if they will not accept one from me."

The senate adopted the railway committee report amendment sponsored by Senator C. P. Beaubien (Con., Quebec) urging unification of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways. The vote was 25 to 21.

The main motion, sponsored by Senator Raoul Dandurand, government leader, recommending further co-operative measures between the two railways, was automatically defeated when the amendment was adopted.

The Dandurand co-operation motion was the majority report of the senate railway committee which studied the railway question for the past two sessions. The Beaubien amendment was the minority report written by Senator Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader in the senate.

"This was in answer to newspaper criticism directed against himself for an earlier statement to the effect there was no solution to the railway problem if by solution was meant the elimination of deficits.

"Those who keep on preaching unification are simply preaching the impossible," said Dr. Manion.

"It is my idea that the only constructive proposal before the country to-day which could do something toward solving this railway problem is the proposal for further co-operation between the two railway systems."

Coal As Souvenir

British Government

Accepts In Principle

Soviet Assistance Pact

London.—The government notified Russia of its acceptance in principle of a mutual assistance pact linking the Soviet with the Anglo-French anti-aggression front and prepared to send more detailed proposals for operation of the pact in a few days.

Officials expressed hope the proposals would be accepted by the Soviet government as the basis for a triple alliance until a formal pact can be concluded.

While details of the proposals were not announced, responsible quarters said they included:

1. A mutual assistance pact which would come into operation in the event of direct aggression upon the European territories of any one of the three signatories. (A conflict between Russia and Japan would be outside the scope of such a pact.)

2. Provision for consultation in the event of direct aggression upon territories of any state guaranteed by the three signatories.

3. Consultation among general staffs of the three powers to ensure efficient collaboration if the signatories were called into action.

Which states would receive aid from the three powers has not yet been determined.

It was expected guarantees of Roumania, Poland and Greece, already pledged by Britain and France, as well as the British mutual assistance agreement with Turkey, would be covered by terms of the new tripartite pact.

Princess Louise III

Great Aunt Of King George Reported To Be Slightly Indisposed

London.—Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyll, great-aunt of the King and a former chateleine of Rideau Hall, Ottawa, was indisposed and did not attend a ceremony at Brighton.

At her residence, Kensington Palace, it was stated: "Princess Louise is not seriously indisposed. She has not been well for some time and she remains in her room resting."

The 91-year-old daughter of Queen Victoria was to have attended the planting of two purple maple trees which she donated to Brighton, in Preston park.

Princess Louise was chateleine at Rideau Hall from 1878 to 1883 when her husband, then the Marquess of Lorne and afterwards Duke of Argyll, was governor-general of Canada.

Of recent years she has rarely left Kensington Palace, in the gardens of which Londoners walk daily, most of them not realizing that within the palace walls lives a daughter of the great queen.

Resents Criticism Directed At The Defence Department

Ottawa.—A lashing rebuke to "the people who started this dastardly, traitorous attack on the national defence department and the war office," was delivered by Major-General L. B. LaFleche, deputy minister of national defence, when the public accounts committee continued its probe into the Bren gun contract with the John C. Inglis Company of Toronto.

Canadian workmen had been denied employment to the extent of many millions of dollars, due to the effect of the investigations, he said. The job of strengthening Canada's defences had been hampered "by men who had sold out Canada's defence and the defence of the empire."

General LaFleche resented that British war office officials had been "insulted and humiliated."

"The enquiry started last September and is still continuing eight or nine months after. The adverse effect upon the rearmament of Canada and therefore the weakening of our defences of Canada and of the empire, and whatever any individual holds dear in that connection, has been severe. I say rearmament has been dangerously hampered and impeded."

"The witness 'is making an unusual statement,' interposed C. Grant MacNeill, (C.C.F., Vancouver North). 'I am not. It is time that somebody did speak out in defence of the people of this country and of the war office officials who have been insulted, humiliated, by many people. I am saying it personally.'

"I am not speaking for myself. I cannot. A public servant is a target for any public man who wants to attack him," declared General LaFleche. "But a public servant still has the right to stand up for people who have been the nation's friends, and that is what I am doing."

Has Broken No Promises

Colonial Secretary Discloses Britain's New Policy In Palestine

London.—Great Britain will maintain its mandate in Palestine until both Arab and Jewish interests are secured. Malcolm MacDonald told the House of Commons. He declared Britain has not broken any promises by its new policy.

The colonial secretary opened a two-day debate on the white paper which foresaw eventual establishment of an independent state in the Holy Land, in which Arabs would have a majority, as they have at present.

He declared the best answer to Jewish claims that the policy placed "Jews at the mercy of the Arab majority" was that the Arabs themselves had rejected that policy.

Thomas Williams and Josiah Wedgwood, Labor members, assailed the government after the colonial secretary spoke.

THE COLEMAN JOURNAL

Published Every Thursday at Coleman, Alberta. Membership in Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association and Alberta Div. C.W.N.A.
H. T. Halliwell, Proprietor.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

LAST WEEK The Journal published an article in which was outlined a plan whereby Coleman could provide a community centre for its varied indoor activities. This is a worthwhile proposal which deserves far more than passing thought. Here is a community of approximately four thousand people yet for accommodation at a community indoor gathering it could only serve less than 500. Even the members of the miners' association, were they all to attend a meeting at the same time, could only be accommodated to the extent of less than two-thirds.

COLEMAN has outgrown its present accommodation for the purposes mentioned above. If, as is proposed, $12,000 is to be spent on an artificial ice plant, why not take the longer view and provide a place which will accommodate other activities mentioned in last week's article?

THE BEST WAY in which to promote unity among our varied sections of population is to have occasional gatherings at which all have an opportunity to attend. At present we are so split up into all kinds of organizations that it is difficult to obtain that unity of purpose for the common good which would mean much to the town. An industrial centre such as this should take the lead among the Pass towns, and provide an auditorium sufficient to accommodate not a mere three or four hundred, but three or four thousand. True, it would cost money, but so do our homes and all other institutions if we are to enjoy the pleasures that go with them.

THE MEMBER for Macleod in the Federal house, Mr. Ernest G. Hanes, told the House of Commons that "no group of men, no collection of brains, no organization, could accomplish the solution of this problem (unemployment distress) under the present system. The system must be changed, and we are here to advocate a new system. Those who have ears to hear, let them hear."

QUOTING from another gentleman, Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, we read:

"In circumstances such as we are around us, the inevitable tendency is for the less fortunate and the less wise to resent the evidence of success, because they do not realize that, in our modern society, the success of any institution which is engaged in the production of wealth is a contribution to society as a whole. During these times, the tendency is increasingly for men of ill-will to do what they can, by the arts of the demagogues, to infect others with ill-will, and to disturb the body politic. Far worse than that, however, is the tendency of men of goodwill to allow their emotions to control their intellects and to lead them to cry for impossible reforms."

THE FACT is that many whose wills are not as strong as those in whom self-reliance and courage are predominant traits, fall back, at the first sign of distress, on the government for relief. Were that relief forthcoming, the spur of necessity would in many instances compel relief-seekers to get out and do something for themselves. It has become all too common to fall back on municipal, provincial and Federal governments for relief, instead of really determined effort being made by many to do something for themselves. The line of least resistance is easiest. And for the purpose of vote-catching, much is fed out and sloppy emotion voiced by members of parliament who hope to retain support by this method. Instead of idly talking of changing the system, some of the old rules of earning a living should be urged.

Mr. Beatty went on to state that it is a mistake to attempt to substitute for such a materialist concept as the desirability of the creation and acquisition of wealth some vague idealism known as thought for the public interest. "I know of no better way to serve the public interest than to acquire and conserve wealth. There is no reason why this should not proceed in accordance with all accepted moral laws, and with the highest ethical principles."

IT IS HOPED that the expressions of loyalty from political leaders in every province of Canada, on the occasion of the royal visit, are not just mere lip service, but that as a result provincial leaders will recognize that only by unity of purpose and co-operation of the various provinces with the Federal government can true nationhood be developed. Trying to make believe that a province has sovereign powers and can act independently in defiance of Dominion laws should be forgotten, particularly in the legislative halls at Edmonton.

THEY GLADDEN OUR HEART

The Journal has many subscribers of long standing who each year call in and pay up in advance for another year. Among them is George Morgan, who without waiting for any reminder comes in regularly and has his card credited with $2.00 for the ensuing year, being among the "cheerful subscribers who pay in advance," and whom it is always a pleasure to meet, not only for the cash they leave, but for their tangible expression of appreciation in calling without waiting to be reminded that their subscription is due.

SISTER OF DR. AIELLO HONORED

Miss Eleanor Aiello, student at Alberta University, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Aiello of Fernie, won the coveted 10,000-franc bursary awarded annually by the government of France. She also won the prize in French awarded by the French consul for Western Canada. She passed with first-class honours in all her subjects, and was class historian for the year of 1939. This distinguished young lady received her early schooling at the Holy Family school and Fernie high school.

CIRCUS PLEASED PEOPLE

Baddeley Bros. Circus, which was here last week, received favorable comment in the various places it played. Though small, it gave clean entertainment, the highlights being the trapeze work. Older people can remember when the famous A. G. Barnes circus was nothing more than a performing dog show, yet in little more than twenty years it developed into one of the principal touring circuses in the continent. Baddeley Bros. hope to keep developing their circus to a much larger concern.

GO TO CHURCH

The "Go to Church" slogan has been used to good advantage in one Alberta town, where, on Mother's Day half the town attended some church service. This slogan could be adopted by "Pass" people with the same or better results. To start the ball rolling we'll say "Go to Church," in the hope that someone will heed it.

IS IT FAIR COMPETITION?

Local printers who are residents of the town buy locally, pay taxes, do their share in contributing to the various organizations and religious institutions; in fact, are part of the community. The printing office pays taxes for the privilege of doing business. Outsiders pay no license, chisel on established business houses, peddle from door to door in competition with established business houses. It applies to the printing business as well as almost every other line. Fleas on a dog were evidently intended to be a nuisance. The same might be said of the fly-by-nights who "leech" on the business developed by others.

Miss Ivy Snodgrass recently sold many souvenir hand trays, made by inmates of the National School for the Blind, and states that she received encouraging support in her sales work in Coleman. The trays which were neatly made, bearing a picture of the King and Queen, were very nice souvenirs of the Royal visit.

A wide-awake Girl Guide calls attention to an error in last week's Journal, in which it was stated that Edward VIII. was crowned King. Though he succeeded his father, George V, he was not crowned, having relinquished the kingship in favor of his brother, the present king, five months before his coronation was to have taken place. It is well that sharp-eyed readers take note of errors such as these, in order to keep the record straight.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Nelson, of Golden, B. C., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. N. Nicholas.

Cement posts have replaced the wooden posts of the guard rail on the hill overlooking the valley on the highway immediately west of Carbondale, about a mile and a half west of town. Several of the wooden posts have been knocked out and there is a sharp drop from the highway at this spot down which it has been the misfortune of an occasional car to take a leap.

A new assistant agent recently arrived at the C.P.R. station at Michel. He will not commence his duties for a few years as it will take some time to train him in the way he should go to make him a railroader. He arrived two weeks ago, when the birth columns recorded a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. William Laurie.

WEDDINGS

JACKSON-FONTANA

Elsa, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fontana of Coleman and John, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Jackson, were united in marriage at the United Church rectory in Blairmore on Wednesday, May 24th, at 10.30 a.m. Rev. Mr. Arrol officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father was dressed in a white, floor-length, tulle over satin dress, having a tight bodice and full skirt, with matching bolero. Her three-quarter-length veil was held by a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a white bible from which fell white satin streamers knotted with lilies of the valley.

The bride was attended by Miss Dolly Simonsen of Macleod, who wore a pink tulle over satin dress styled on princess lines. She wore pink carnations on her hair and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Mr. Elmo Fontana, brother of the bride, supported the groom.

Immediately following the ceremony only immediate friends and relatives sat down to a wedding dinner held at the bride's home.

The groom's mother was attired in a lovely black lace dress and wore a corsage of yellow roses.

The bride's mother also looked lovely in a black and white ensemble and she too wore a corsage of pink roses.

In the evening a reception was held at the bride's home, attended by their many friends. Following the reception the happy young couple left on a short honeymoon.

For going away the bride chose a navy tailored suit with fuchsia accessories.

They received many beautiful and useful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Jackson will reside in Coleman.—E. S.

BELLEVUE, HILLCREST AND FRANK

The floats in the Victoria Day parade at Bellevue, particularly that carrying the May Queen and attendants, were indeed highly creditable. Ten well decorated bicycles added to the color of the parade. Among the amateur photographers were seen two motion picture cameramen.

The honor of May Queen was awarded to Miss Lily Padgett, and she was crowned by Mrs. L. P. Robert. Awards were made to the unsuccessful candidates.

Coleman intermediate and high schools contributed folk dances to the program. Principal Hoyle explained these were part of the physical training program. The first dance was of American origin. At this stage a dog fight took place at the north end of the arena, temporarily distracting the attention of the audience.

The violin solo by Frank Hoesek was well received, as was also the Hungarian dance by Coleman school children.

The girls' physical training class of the Crow Sport Club demonstrated their ability in many difficult exercises, under the direction of Miss Isabel McDonald. The boys' division gave a demonstration of pyramid building, somersaulting, and a comedy act which was very amusing. The afternoon's program was closed with a horseshoe pitching tournament and high jumping competition in the south end of the arena. The jitney dance at night closed the fifth annual celebration.

Rev. Richard and Mrs. Upton and two daughters attended the United Church conference in Calgary, and saw the King and Queen.

Mrs. R. Makin of Hillcrest left on May 23 for a visit to her former home in Wigan, Lancashire, Eng.

Excitement Forty Years Ago

Ontario Paper Records Road Mishaps In Horse And Buggy Days

The St. Marys Journal-Age says nowadays we are shocked by the highway accident record and look back to the good old horse and buggy days when life was safe and the pedestrians got a break. It was therefore a surprise to us the other day to observe in an old Journal-Age file of forty years ago no less than three local items on the same page calling attention to road mishaps. One item told of Billy Diamond, former St. Marys man, bringing action against the Ingersoll Waterworks Co. for injuries sustained by being thrown from his buggy in that town. Another driver, a resident of Woodham, turned his young mare too swiftly onto Queen street and was happy in getting off with a broken shaft. Again a young man was thrown from a buggy on Water street and landed on the road on his face. He was taken to the Ontario House and "comforted by the means within reach." All this excitement in 1898!

Date Is Moveable

Time Man Entered America May Be Placed Farther Back

Anthropologists have found evidence that a prehistoric "old timer" pre-dating even the 10,000-year-old Folsom man—may have roamed the Rio Grande Valley of New Mexico, when camels and elephants romped the Western plains.

Frank Hibben, University of New Mexico anthropologist, gave official credence to such probability as a result of discovery of a finely flinted dart point in a Sandia Mountains cave just east of Albuquerque. "There can be no doubt of the importance of this find," Dr. Hibben said, "nor of the possibility that we may have to move the date of man's entry into America back once more." The dart was found some weeks ago by archaeological students in a cave sealed by stalagmitic material which Dr. Hibben said precluded any possibility of deposit since the Pleistocene age. Unofficially it was estimated to have been made somewhere between 10,000 and 25,000 years ago.

Canada's Permanent Force

Improvement In The Conditions Of Service Is Urged

Improvement in the conditions of service of Canada's permanent force to bolster morale and attract ambitious, intelligent young men was urged under the government by Leslie Mutch (Lib., Winnipeg South), as the common approval of defence estimates totalling $17,000,000.

When so much attention and money was being devoted to defence, Mr. Mutch contended, more consideration should be given the human side of defence. Some of the higher-ups in the army, he complained, were "still living in the days of the bow and arrow" as far as procedure was concerned.

He advocated a contributory pensions scheme for older ranks, allowances for minor children, and broadening of the marriage regulations.

Flee From Danger

Plan For Evacuation Of Cities In The Event Of War

The easy acceptance with which we read how our cities are to be evacuated if war begins makes a travesty of the vaunt of civilization. These cities are to be emptied and the swarms of humans to be dispersed as the wind blows. London is to evacuate its children, but puts more hope in the security of its safety measures than Paris puts in the more limited measures it is taking.

In Paris the people are strongly recommended to go away from their homes. They are ordered to leave upon the arrival of what is officially cryptically described as "the period of tension."

Trains, buses, and every other motor vehicle are apportioned for this transport of the people from Paris. The large number who have relatives in the country are to go to the homes of those relatives, and the people in Paris without rural connections are to be placed in the quarter million indispensable to protect buildings against fire and to give other services.

This evacuation plan for Paris is thought to have two flaws. A "period of tension" may not be sufficient to get the people out of the city. And French people are only with great difficulty got to leave the homes in which they are determined to stay and take their swift fleeing time. The situation in the devastated areas in the Great War. The same intimate cleavage to the home is likely again to be encountered in Paris in any other war. —Winnipeg Free Press.

New Royal Seal

Was Created For Use By His Majesty In Ottawa

A new royal seal had to be made for the King's visit. His Majesty affixed this special seal to the bills to which he gave royal assent on his visit to the Canadian parliament. The Royal Seal of Great Britain may not be taken out of the British Isles. The seal used by the governor-general was considered not suitable for use by the King himself. Minister of Justice Lapointe submitted and secured the passing of a bill by parliament authorizing the creation of the new seal for the King's use.

After Intensive Study

Doctors Find Fixed Type Of Insanity Not Inheritable

New evidence that insanity is not inheritable was announced before the American Psychiatric Association. Until recently it was believed that the children of families which have a history of insanity are likely to acquire one of the various mental diseases. Dr. Horatio Pollock and Dr. Benjamin Malzberg of the New York State Department of Mental Health, said. However, an intensive study of 300 students at state asylums, and of their parents, brothers and sisters, and other relatives, failed to show any pattern of inheritance such as the patterns which hold true for physical characteristics.

Thousands of Czechs in France already have registered for a Czech Legion which is prepared to offer its services to France and to fight for the re-establishment of a homeland. Exhibit Sent To Paris

Canada Is Justly Proud Of Indian Children's Art Work

Canada has reason for pride in the exhibit of work of Indian children, the credit of which has been sent to the League of Red Cross Societies in Paris. France, for lead to national Red Cross organizations in countries which have expressed interest in it. It is the first all-Indian exhibit to be sent out of Canada by the Red Cross, although samples of children's work included with other consignments have attracted considerable interest abroad, especially in Great Britain.

The exhibit includes some of the religious art work of Inkpenne Indian Day School, Oliver, B.C., which has already "made the news" abroad. One of the boys from this school, Francis Batiote, won a bronze medal and second-class honors at the exhibition of the Royal Drawing Society in London, a year ago, for pictures painted on buckskin. He is now taking a special course which is given in Indian art at Santa Fe, New Mexico. Other pieces in the exhibit feature the up-to-date carving and basketry work of St. Paul's Indian Residential School, North Vancouver, some of the finest raffia work produced in Canada from the Alberni Indian School on Vancouver Island and the Indian art work of St. Mary's School at Cardston, Alta.

As Christians, Indian children interpret religious themes according to familiar, every-day life. In their drawings of the Nativity, the Mother of God, St. Joseph and the Wise Men are Indians, and the Christ Child is in the traditional Indian cradle suspended from a tree. The Star of Bethlehem, usually shown in an Eastern setting, shines forth in all its brilliance over a tepee.

Remarkable action and life are revealed in the models of fretwork done in soft, light wood and portraying rearing horses, reindeer and other animals, not forgetting the conventional fish.

Now Used In Surgery

Celulose Film Is Found Excellent Substitute For Human Tissue

Substitution of cellulose film for human tissues was described as a "safe" surgical technique by a Virginia surgeon, who reported success in achieving a severed tendon with the shelly material in such a way that a deformed hand became practically normal again.

Dr. Thomas Wheelton of Richmond, told how, after bridging with strong silk a five-inch gap between the severed ends of a cut tendon, he wrapped the tendon in cellulose film in much the same manner as paper is rolled around a cigarette. An 18-year-old youth's hand, Wheelton reported in the Journal of Bone and Joint Surgery, had exhibited a certain deformity after a tendon between wrist and thumb had been sliced by a piece of glass. But after operation and sheathing of the cut parts within a tube-like casing of this film, "the patient has excellent ability to extend the thumb, and at the same time has so little contraction (of the tendon), that he can almost fully flex his thumb normally."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON JUNE 4

PAUL PLEADS HIS OWN CASE

Golden text: I have lived before God in all good conscience until this day. Acts 23:1.

Lesson: Acts 21:27-23:11; 24:10-26:32.

Devotional reading: Romans 8:31-39.

Explanations And Comments

Paul's Story of His Life and the Mob at Jerusalem, Acts 21:40-22:21. "Give me leave to speak unto the people" was Paul's request of the Chief Captain, "Get me safety out of this, away from this raging mob," would have been the anxious plea of most men in Paul's position, and perhaps it was surprise which let Lyones, the chief captain, to allow Paul to speak to the howling Jews below him. Paul addressed them in their own language, Aramaic, a dialect of the Hebrew. He defended himself from the charge that he was an enemy of the people of the law, and of the temple. He told them that he was an Aramaic, and though born in Tarsus, he had been educated by their famous rabbi Gamaliel. Gamaliel was "high in honor of all the people." Acts 5:34, and when he died men said, "The glory of the law has been sealed." Gamaliel was a member of the Sanhedrin, and it was he who, when the apostles Peter and John were imprisoned and made their escape, and the authorities "were minded to slay them," stopped them by declaring that "if this counsel or this work be of men, it will be overthrown, but if it is of God, ye will not be able to overthrow them." Paul told them that he had been most zealous in persecuting the church, and had even studied for Damascus with letters from the Sanhedrin allowing him to seize and bring back chains on all the Christians he could find. Many of those to whom he was speaking must have known and recalled these facts. Next, he wanted to defend his Christian faith, and he told them about his wonderful conversion, his interview with Ananias and the restoration of his sight, about his return to Jerusalem and his baptism. And finally, he justified his work among the Gentiles as the fulfilling of the express command of the Lord.

Startles Whole Ship

Princess Margaret Rose Figured In Amusing Incident On River Steamer

An amusing incident occurred during the recent trip of Queen Mary and Princess Elizabeth and Margaret Rose down the River Thames, in the steamer the St. Katharine.

Margaret Rose got up on the captain's bridge, the St. Katharine, and used her eyes and her wit, reports C. H. J. Snider in the Toronto Telegram. She knew that that little clock-like thing was a microphone. The captain used to broadcast to his crew, but Margaret Rose didn't know that. She looked quickly at Queen Mary seated serenely by the bridge bulkhead enjoying the view of the great river, and she looked quickly at the Captain in the opposite bridge wing. Stepping to the microphone and standing on tip toes, she suddenly started Father Thames and the whole ship with the broadcast "Are you enjoying it, Grandma? Isn't it lovely? We are soon going to have some tea now."

The childish voice was many times magnified. Margaret Rose used all her vigorous lung power. They had tea then.

Irishmen Enlist

Fine Type Of Recruits Being Secured For Royal Air Force

Irish army authorities are worried by the comparatively poor response to the recent appeal for recruits for the volunteer force. The only bright spot in the 26 counties, it is said, is Donegal, where many men from Northern Ireland cross the border to join up.

The recruiting drive is part of the plan to raise the strength of the defence forces from 20,000 men to 30,000 and to provide for air raid precautions work.

On the other hand, large numbers of Irish cross the border and the Irish Sea to enlist in the United Kingdom forces and a very fine type of recruit is being secured for the Royal Air Force. Prime Minister de Valera recently said in reply to a question in the Dail that representation had been made to Whitehall to discontinue advertisements in the Irish papers for air force men.

The policy of the Government is to maintain strict neutrality in the next war, but food supplies to Britain will be continued and increased.

Gave Up Too Soon

Roy Lundin, owner of a steel casting company at Quincy, Mass., sat down to open his office safe, using a combination known only to himself. Suddenly the combination came off in his hands. Police said a burglar apparently had given up efforts to crack the strongbox just as it was ready to fall apart.

Health LEAGUE OF CANADA
presents
TOPICS OF VITAL INTEREST
by DR. J. W. S. McCULLOUGH

PLANNING FOR HEALTH

Public concern for public health makes the leading editorial in the current issue of "Health" of timely interest. The editor of the official publication of the Health League of Canada says:

"The suggestion made in the House of Commons recently by the Honourable C. G. Power, Minister of Pensions and National Health, that a national conference should be called to discuss ways and means of developing a Dominion-wide health programme with general approval. Such a conference was called in Washington last July and at that time the details of a health programme for the United States were approved.

"A similar conference is to be called in Canada. Considerable preliminary work will be necessary before it will be possible to approach the national health problems intelligently. This implies the carrying out of preliminary studies by various groups. It is suggested that all interested bodies, official and voluntary, should consider the possibilities of such a conference and be prepared to submit facts as to the need for action in particular fields.

"The weakness of inter-provincial conferences of health such as have been held in the past has been failure to undertake preliminary planning essential to the development of a sound programme. It has been notorious that proposals brought forward have not been studied. The result has been a variety of requests from different provinces, none of which could be carried out in the absence of unanimity.

"Nor is unanimity alone sufficient. It requires time to study and elaborate a plan which is sound and unanimous and there are many health problems in Canada which require attention. Specific problems such as venereal disease and tuberculosis need specific action but in addition the general health machinery is far from perfect and in the provision of full-time health service throughout Canada rests the solution of many diseases.

"Insurance is undoubtedly a question in which the need for Dominion and Provincial co-operation is obvious. Everything considered a national health conference will open up great possibilities for improving general health and lowering death rates throughout the Dominion. But the suggested conference will only be successful insofar as the spadework which precedes successful conference is well done."

A New Invention

Makes Living Tissues Visible Under The Microscope

A new invention which makes living tissues and their functions visible under the microscope was demonstrated during the closing session of the American Medical Association.

The device introduces cold light deep into parts of animals and enables medical scientists to study them as they function normally. The inventor, Dr. Malvin H. Kniss, of the University of Chicago, spent seven years developing it.

The new combination of cold light and a microscope reveals the effects of such drugs as insulin, morphine, aspirin and other substances as they affect body cells.

Its use in human beings is still to be determined but it may prove useful in the diagnosis of disease, Dr. Kniss said.

The Literary Beginner

After more than forty years' experience, Hilaire Belloc advises the literary beginner that, on whatever book or piece of writing he is engaged, he should do something every day, even if it be only a couple of lines. He should keep records of every contract, of every letter in connection with his writing, of every review. He should also keep all the notes he makes and file them under heads which may be easily referred to.—New York Times.

Gunnar comforted Sarah Lynn in the difficult days which followed her not listen to the walling," he admonished her.

"But they say I killed her, Gunnar."

"And I say you gave to her again. Not choking in blankets, but boldly in the sky, as she would wish, that small grandmother. Age closed her in like a trap, you opened the door."

"Oh, I know! But, I keep dreaming of her, huddled down in her seat, swinging over the belt—"

"That is folly. Think of her looking down with pleasure."

"Yes. Only I did so want her at my wedding. It isn't going to be a very nice wedding, Gunnar."

He shrugged. "What matter? It is a wedding. That is enough. Then we go!"

They were walking back to her house from an evening with Lynn Penn.

"Gunnar, I promise, I'll stop grieving about Great-granny."

"That is well. Death in age, in sickness, in helplessness is good. All such should be put away."

She came out of her mood of exaltation with a cry of protest. "Oh, Gunnar—no! That's horrible!"

"Man," he persisted, "must learn from Nature. To live—survive—how do you say it?"

"The survival of the fittest, but who can say who can judge and decide who is the fittest? Don't you see what a frightful danger it would be? How wicked people could bribe and corrupt—And some of the finest minds and spirits are in frail bodies. Do you want a world full of prize-fighters?" "Right," she said hotly, "think of my Uncle Lynn!"

He shrugged. "You speak now of the exception. That would be bad. But in the end, after five hundred years, would not the race be greatly improved?"

Sarah Lynn wasn't interested in the state of the race five hundred years ahead. She had no ideas before, but never so vehemently.

She had to put herself to sleep that night restlessly, remembering the thrilling beauty of the lane against the moon.

But she kept her promise to stop mourning over the death of the ancestors. All her loyal cohorts helped, and a long, understanding cable from Sally Ann, and most of all, the man in the wheeled chair.

"Let's put a period to it, Sarah Lynn," he said. "You were privileged to pay back in an hour what you had owed her all your life. She gave you your freedom; you gave her hers."

So peace came back to Sarah Lynn for her last days in Danavale. She said to her father, "Dad, I'm to be married in Great-granny's parlor Monday morning at nine, and then we're flying east. I wanted you to know. I'm telling Bill, too."

Ed Dana put a hand on her shoulder. "You wanted me to know? Well, don't you want me to come to your wedding?"

"Dad, dear!"

"We'll be there, all your brothers and I, and old Penny, of course. I—I doubt if your mother—"

"I know."

"Your mother is pretty set in her ideas, for all she's so gentle. This thing, about Duncan, I mean, goes pretty deep. But I want you to know the rest of us—the boys and I—are satisfied, Sarah Lynn."

She couldn't speak. It was a comfort to have him go on talking.

"We're pretty proud of you, Sarah Lynn, and we like Gunnar. It's fine what the old lady has done for you, just now, when things are pretty lean with me. Of course, we always knew she would remember you substantially, and it wasn't any surprise to find she's left everything to you and Sally Ann. Well, that'll make it nice for the boys. He'll be free to keep right on with the things he's interested in. I'd hate to think of his having to keep his nose to the grindstone," he said. He gave her a hard hug and got quickly into his car.

Sarah Lynn went for a last walk with Miss Pennington, out to their meadow. She dreaded it a little, but the old governess was briskly commonplace. "I wonder at you, really I do," she said severely, "marrying without a new stitch to your name! It would have given me pleasure to mark your things. I cannot help but feel this haste is unnecessary."

Sarah Lynn drove herself out to the airport to say good-bye to her plane and her friends, young Bill's adoring presence beside her.

"Gee, Sis, some people have all the luck!" he moaned. "Gosh, I wish I was going with you and Gunnar!"

"Bill, this is a secret—cross your heart? Well, you get through high school, and I'll send for you to come over to Norway and learn to fly."

"Gee!" he gasped. "Golly! Hot ziggy!"

No fooling, she pledged him, her heart warm. She did have all the luck, all the love. She felt a great uprush of happy gratitude, an ardent longing to give something away, to do something for somebody.

She allowed her plane to stall in level flight, held her joy stick back and her rudder on and went into a violent tailspin.

Sarah Lynn's heart turned over and over. She clutched and clung, thanking her stars that Gunnar was not watching. Could the mad-cap recover? What were the men thinking down on the field, her friends?

Kit closed her throttle, pulled back on her stick, regained her flying speed, straightened out smoothly, a brilliant performance. She grinned at her passenger. "All washed up, am I?"

"Of course not! You're marvellous! That was a real piece of the Kit, but I believe we'd better go down, now."

(To Be Continued.)

One Word France Respects

La Patrie Has Electrifying Effect On Every Person

Fifteen billion francs are needed for national defense. The news came from Mr. Reynaud, finance minister. How this man succeeds in keeping his popularity is an inexplicable mystery, says the Paris correspondent of The Argonaut, for every few months he steps before the microphone and tells us just how far we must dig down in our empty pockets for the sake of "La Patrie" and France accepts it without discussion. In such a wrangling people the fact is phenomenal.

One must understand, however, that "La Patrie" is the most electrifying word in the French language. At its sound, sentimentalists weep while men of action get red in the face with emotion. For the sacrifice too bitter. It is the only word in the vernacular without a trace of some sort attached to it. When the most irrepressible Frenchman pronounces it he becomes as solemn as an owl and if you don't receive it in a like spirit, trouble is brewing. Mr. Reynaud has been using it quite freely, of late.

His One Weakness

Blair Hughes-Stanton, modernist son of an R. A. father (the late Sir Herbert Hughes-Stanton), admits to one artistic weakness—he invariably draws big toes on the wrong side of a foot. So he usually cracks up. But in his recent London exhibit is one he overlooked. He found it himself at the private view.

Do This If You're NERVOUS

Don't take chances on products you know nothing about. Only an temporary relief when there's need of a good general remedy. Let Pinkham's Compound help build up weak physical resistance and thus aid in winning lasting nerve, lower distress from female functional disorders and make life worth living.

For over 60 years one woman has told another how to get "nervous" by using Pinkham's—over 1,000,000 women have written in reporting glorious benefits—IT MUST BE GOOD!

Fiery, Itching Toes and Feet

Here is a clean, stainless antiseptic oil now dispensed by chemist at trifling cost, that will do more for your feet than anything you have ever used.

This action is so powerfully penetrating that the itching is instantly stopped, and the skin is soothed, moistened, and made very secure. The sure is true of Barber's Itch Balm.

Preserve Historic Site

Southwest Earthwork In Ontario Was Indian Stronghold

Unique among the national historic sites preserved and maintained in Canada by the National Parks Bureau, Department of Mines and Resources, Ottawa, is the Southwest Earthwork, located near St. Thomas, Ontario. These aboriginal works, which cover an area of about 3½ acres, are believed to have been erected by the Attiwandaronk or "Neutral" Indians. When the Attiwandaronk were driven from Ontario by the Iroquois about 1650, this prehistoric earthwork is thought to have been the scene of their last stand against the triumphant Iroquois warriors. Although the Attiwandaronk had been visited by French traders previous to their expulsion, the remains of the earthworks have disclosed nothing that would indicate previous contacts with European civilization.

Canadian archaeologists and officials of the Smithsonian Institute of Washington have declared this Indian fortification to be the only one of its kind in Canada. The site comprises the ruins of a unique double wall, protected by a double line of earthworks by which it was completely enclosed. The ditch between the walls, locally known as the moat, was formed by the removal of the earth used in building the walls. There is also abundant evidence that these walls were palisaded.

Flint arrowheads and bone needles of the most primitive type unearthed at the site point to an age of hundreds of years, while earthenware fragments of stone pipes and other articles give an idea of the material culture of the inhabitants. Many scattered broken human bones found in association with those of food animals suggest that ceremonial cannibalism was practised. Several charred fragments of bones also found are possibly those of captives who had been burnt at the stake.

Hardening Of The Brain

A "stony" brain disease was reported to the American Medical Association. Parts of the brain harden and turn into stone when the parathyroid glands in the neck fail to function properly. Dr. McKendree Eaton and Dr. Samuel Haines of Rochester, Minn., declared. These glands regulate the body's utilization of calcium, the bone-building mineral.

Work is done well only when done with a will.

Free Democracies

Have The Highest Standard of Living In The World Today

A defence of "bad government" was offered by Transport Minister Howe in telling Dalhousie University Alumni Association the free democracies have "the highest standard of living in the world today."

"I am sure no one here doubts that we have bad government if they are readers of the daily press," said the Minister, a former member of Dalhousie faculty. "But in defence of 'bad government' I can say none of the democracies are disposed to go to war to inflict their bad government on the other peoples of the world."

Under bad government we can have free press, a free press and a free press. These are things that are necessary in democracies, but not possible under totalitarian governments."

"Admitting for the moment our government is 'bad,' we are very fortunate to be living under this government."

Time On The Moon

Revolution Around Sun Slow Making Long Days And Nights

The long nights and days on the moon result from the fact that, as the moon travels around the sun, it turns very slowly on its axis. Thus, one side of it is exposed to the rays of the sun for a great length of time.

Because of the earth's daily journey in its orbit around the sun, it must spin on its axis a little more than one complete revolution before the same place arrives again beneath the vertical rays of the sun. This during one year, one extra revolution is made.

Praise Canadian Turkeys

Canadian turkeys stand high in the estimation of the British trade. In a recent issue, The Fish Trades Gazette, a leading British poultry trade journal, reflects this opinion in the following extract: "The best demand has been for the Canadian birds, which, although dearer than the Continental, are a far better turkey; they are graded so well. Not only does a buyer get the correct weight but the birds are all young."

Trade With Germany

In the fiscal year ended March 31, Canada's exports to Germany increased $5,541,334 and imports from Germany decreased $1,280,330. Imports from Germany in the fiscal year ended March 31 were $10,117,161 and exports to Germany were $17,790,739.

French Visitor Refers To Visit Of Their Majesties To North America

The journey of King George and Queen Elizabeth to North America is an event of vast historic importance emphasizing the greatness of colonial empires, Gabriel Hanotaux, historian and member of the French Academy, said in an article in La Patrie.

"This exceptional visit in the present circumstances will define in the eyes of universal opinion the meaning and scope of that expression which has suddenly taken on vast significance—colonial empire."

Canada was of particular interest to France, because much of it once belonged to France and still had a large French-speaking population.

After paying tribute to such explorers as Samuel de Champlain, Pere Marquette, Jacques Cartier, Sir Walter Raleigh and William Penn, Hanotaux said "North America is the daughter of two great European nations—Great Britain and France."

"These Canadian lands are endowed by nature with vast riches in the form of gold mines, precious metals, boundless forests, fur-bearing animals, arable lands—all offering limitless horizons for profitable human labor."

"Such is the future of this Dominion, and this is the offering which will be handed to the youthful sovereign whose reign opens under the auspices of such a beautiful gift."

The Blairmore Enterprise's edition commemorative of the Royal Visit was very commendable and was given good support by advertisers of Blairmore.

The King and Queen drove by too quickly for the great majority of the people in Calgary to obtain more than a fleeting glimpse.

The free vaudeville show by Imperial Oil Co., of which Sentinel Motors is local dealer, drew a capacity attendance in Columbus Hall, and proved very entertaining.

The heavy wind of Sunday night blew down some trees and fences.
One tree at Joe Emmerson's house was blown down, and another at the post office, besides others in various places in town.

Considerably over a quarter million dollars is being spent by the Crows Nest Pass Coal Co. in erecting new by-product coke ovens at Michol to replace the beehive type at present in use. The work is now progressing.

Wilfrid Dutil and Max Stigler were the delegates from Coleman Elks Lodge attending the provincial grand lodge convocation held in Calgary on Thursday and Friday last. High River Elks Band played at one of the stands on the route of the royal procession.

Gordon Smith of Lethbridge spent the week-end the guest of his uncle,
Mr. W. H. Smith, manager of the government liquor store. He is attending high school in Lethbridge, and was hoping to have been able to visit the below ground working of the coal mines, but in this he was disappointed as the miners were on holiday, too.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lipovski; Mr. and Mrs. George Bielich, Mr. and Mrs.
Bruno Rypien and Mrs. M. Lusich, of the Summit Works, went to Banff national park on Sunday, and saw the royal couple going to church, and again when they came out from the half-hour service at St. George's church in Banff, of which Rev. Tully-Montgomery is rector.

Leon Jovosky of Coleman and Annie Sandalak of Bellevue were married at St. Paul's United Church, Coleman, on Saturday morning, by Rev. H. J.
Bevan. The bride was beautifully attired in white satin and was supported by two bridesmaids similarly attired. The witnesses were H. Mc-

the immediate friends of the couple were present at the wedding service.

The Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association is represented on the Royal Tour of Canada by Sam J.
Dorman, a past president of the association and publisher of the Alameda (Sask.) Dispatch. He joined the press party at Quebec and will continue throughout the entire tour. It is gratifying to note that the weekly newspapers of Canada are given equal recognition with the dailies.

An interesting visitor over the weekend was Mr. Victor Murray son of Rev. and Mrs. T. Murray. The Rev.
Mr. Murray was Coleman's first Presbyterian minister, and is remembered with loving affection by many of the older people here, even though it is 24 years since he left here. He is still active in the ministry near Owen Sound, Ont., and will likely retire next year. His son, Victor, called on a number of people who were living here at the time of his fathers ministry. Victor had been to San Francisco, and was returning to Ontario.
He is employed by the Federal government in engineering work.

W. V. COLE

who announces a policy of steady improvement in service to patrons of the Pass theatres.

Improvements at the Palace theatre will add greatly to the comfort of patrons, and include the installation of an air-conditioning system which will completely change the air every five minutes. The system during the winter will be used for heat distribution, as the steam radiators in various parts of the building will be taken out, and steam-heated air forced through the air-conditioning system, for which there are numerous vents in the ceiling.

The interior has been entirely lined with Donnacomo board, which will improve sound production, besides giving a much brighter appearance.
Wall lights suitably shaded will replace the former ceiling lights. The entrance has been entirely re-modelled, making it much more spacious and facilitating ingress and egress from the building. The entrance lobby will be carpeted, giving it an inviting appearance.

There are a few finishing touches to be completed, and when complete this theatre will indeed present a marked improvement which will be greatly appreciated by the public.

ST. ALBAN'S, COLEMAN

Rev. J. R. Hague, A.Th., Incumbent.
Trinity Sunday—10 a.m., Sunday School; 11 a.m., Holy Communion and sermon.

Read I John 2:9, 10.

It is an accepted fact that no community can enjoy the highest standard of living if it withdraws from the rest of the world, it logically follows that no person can live a full and rich life if he withdraws from his fellowmen through hate. The teachings of Christ are based upon love: "Love thy neighbor." "Love thy fellow-men"—yes, even "Love thine enemy." Many of us are prone to believe that if we obey the ten commandments we shall enjoy the eternal life that is promised.
But there is another important factor involved, the second of the two great commandments, that Jesus placed above all others, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."—Exch.

They Were Fed Raw Milk

"Without exception, the children harboring infection with the Bovine type of Tuberculosis Baccilus have come to Toronto for treatment from different parts of the Province of Ontario, other provinces and other countries where the milk supply is not pasteurized.

"History invariably revealed the fact that the children had been fed raw milk for some time, or had always been fed it.

"On the other hand, not a single case has arisen in children from Toronto.

"In other words, the generation of children brought up on Pasteurized Milk has escaped infection.

"And furthermore, there is no record of any milk-borne outbreak in this City since 1915.

"Thus, the effective Pasteurization of milk eliminates not only Bovine Tuberculosis, but all milk-borne infections."
